The Montclair companies ran out 1500 feet and managed to get a stream on. The Essex Truck Company rendered efficient services. The furniture was mostly saved, but the building was completely destroyed. The loss is estimated at about $200. The insurance is $1250. Gustave Gruber, a German, assisted in carrying furniture from the building, becoming excited in the confusion, jumped from the second story to the ground. He was rendered insensible by the fall, and was carried to an adjoining residence, where Dr. J. Edward Stubbert attended his injuries. The origin of the fire is shrouded in mystery. After refreshments the Society's social hour met at the residence of Mr. Fred Heckel on Franklin street, Tuesday evening, June 19th.

Regular Meeting of the Township Committee.

In the absence of Chairman Thomas Oakes, Committee member Stannard Farrand was chosen to preside over the transactions of the Township Committee on Wednesday night. After disposing of the police, fire and poor bills, the Committee gave a hearing to Mr. Charles Nash and Mr. Frederick Nash who desired to enter a protest against the construction of a siding by the Orange & Bloomfield Street Railway Company opposite their residences on Broad street. Mr. Nash cited the annoyances to which he had been subjected to when the Newark & Bloomfield Street Railway was constructed. He had been compelled to go out in the night and disperse crowds that gathered along his fence. In his estimation the siding was a nuisance so close to private residences, and he thought the Committee might request the Company to put it in some other place where it would not annoy private families. A lengthy discussion followed, participated in by all the members of the Committee present. Mr. Nash was informed that, according to the ordinance, the Committee had no power to dictate where the sidings should be placed. The ordinance only stipulated the minimum distance they should be placed. The Committee had no power to require the railway officials and designated the points where sidings could be placed with the least inconvenience to the public. Mr. Farrand stated that the ordinance had been presented for public inspection and discussion at a town meeting before granting the franchise and that these objections would have been made at that time. Mr. Farrand said that the who a line of road had been laid according to the suggestions of the Committee. To alter one point would necessitate an alteration of the whole line. The special rails for sidings had been made to conform to the points designated. Mr. Cook was of the opinion that it would be impossible to indicate where the sidings should be placed without giving offense to some one. The Committee had acted to the best of their judgment, after giving the matter due consideration. Mr. David did not consider it necessary to make changes. The Town Council thought that the annoyances complained of by Mr. Nash as being liable to occur could be prevented by the police. Messrs. Nash and Carl then took their leave and made way for Mr. Sigler, who desired to make an appeal to the Committee to spare one of the venerable elms at the junction of Franklin Road and Broad street, which had been placed by a slight deviation to the eastward the centre one of the three trees ordered to be cut down could easily be passed by the horse-cars and the left standing tree. Mr. Sigler said that complaints had been made to him about the trees some time ago, and he asked the counsel what the township liability would be, in case by accident a driver collided with the tree and sustained injury to himself, horse or vehicle. The counsel thought the town would have to pay damages. The matter was referred to Mr. David, of Road Committee, who will consult with the railway officials and see if the desired tree can be spared.

Mr. William Wyman, whose residence is on the corner of Warren and Broad streets, furnished the Committee with information regarding a nuisance that he was subjected to and which he wanted the Committee to abate if possible. Benedita Ball, a dairymaid, drove his herd of cattle along Warren street, passing Mr. Wyman's residence, to the brook where they were watered. The cows were allowed to graze along the road. To this Mr. Wyman had no objection, but he did object to the filthy condition of the sidewalk fronting his property, caused by the cattle passing to and from the brook. Mr. Wyman testified to the fact that the matter spoken of by Mr. Wyman was an insufferable nuisance and ought not to be tolerated. Mr. Farrand stated that he was in a position to sympathize with Mr. Wyman as he was afflicted with a similar nuisance. Town Council read a copy of resolutions that he had prepared especially for the purpose of dealing with the nuisance, sheep, etc., running at large, pasturing on public highways, or tramping on private property. The question was raised as to whether the resolution would effect persons driving their cattle to and from pasture. It was the prevailing opinion that it would have a tendency to make such persons more careful in the way they did not. Mr. Wyman was given to understand that an ordinance would be enacted that would abate the nuisance he complained of.

A communication was received from Excelsior Hose Company requesting that a fire bell be placed in their neighborhood. It was stated that when the wind blew from a northerly direction it was impossible to hear the bell in the centre. Mr. Freeman, of the Fire Committee, said he had spoken to the proprietors of the Bloomfield Paper Mill about placing a steam whistle at the mill, which he thought would be more effective and cheaper than a bell. Mr. Cook suggested the placing of a fog horn on the Gas Works. In the discussion that followed, it was rumored that it would not cost much over $100 to establish a regular fire alarm system in the township.

The Clerk was instructed to issue the annual proclamation relating to dogs. The request of Excelsior Hose Company to have the rent of their building raised from $10 to $12.50 per month, was granted. Petitions for sidewalks were received from Rev. J. M. Nardello and Phoenix Hose Company on Bloomfield avenue, and George W. Panooset, Midland avenue.
